

Press Release

For immediate release – 12th December, 2006

RGMMC Establishment as the organisers and promoters of the ROTAX MOJO Max Euro Challenge would like to announce the venues hosting the 2007 Championship.

2007 ROTAX MOJO Max Euro Challenge

March 21 – 25 Salbris, France
May 16 – 20 Wackersdorf, Germany
July 25 – 29 A1 Speedworld, Austria
September 26 – 30 Genk, Belgium

*All dates listed include the days allocated for official free practice, qualifying and finals.

Salbris was resurfaced last year with new ripple strips included to help improve the level of the competition and safety of the drivers. It remains one of the most popular circuits on the tour and will again open the championship with the first round in 2007. www.sologne-karting.com

Wackersdorf is a new addition to the Euro Challenge and is currently expanding their paddock area to accommodate additional drivers and teams. The complex is very impressive with a long, fast circuit while also boasting an enormous indoor karting track and excellent trackside restaurant. A1 Speedworld is going to have some major improvements done to the complex this year in order to ensure a better quality of racing and sufficient facilities to meet the needs of the growing number of competitors. It has played host to the event every year. www.a1speedworld.com

Karting Genk is now one of the most outstanding karting complexes in Europe after being totally redesigned along with new kart shop and amenities. The circuit was officially opened this year and has hosted the final round of the Euro Challenge for the past two seasons. www.kartinggenk.be

*All tracks used for the four rounds of the event are CIK-FIA Homologated circuits.

The 2007 Euro Challenge will again take the racing action to the fans with Data-Live timing, Raceworld TV and live internet coverage throughout the race weekends. This year 15 places are up for grabs at the 2007 Rotax Max Challenge Grand Finals to be held in Al Ain, United Arab Emirates next November. The Euro Challenge champions will receive an invitation to compete for the World Rotax titles in each class - Rotax Max Senior, Junior, Masters and DD2.
